THREE TIMES-A-WEEK

Rockland, Maine, Jan. 1, 1920.
Personally appeared Neil S. Perry, who on oath declares that he is president in the office of the Rockland Publishing Co., and that of the issue of The Courier-Gazette of Dec. 30, 1919, there was printed a total of 5,018 copies.
Before me,
J. W. CROCKER,
Notary Public.

SEVENTY-FOUR YEARS OLD

With this New Year's Day issue The Courier-Gazette enters upon its 75th year of uninterrupted existence. For forty-six years of that time its affairs have been guided, altogether or in part, by the same hands that continue to give the direction as it passes the first milestone of three-quarters of a century. It may be that the physical elasticity of youth no longer abides with the publishers of the paper, but its patrons nevertheless will find them daily as of yore going with light hearts about the tasks of the office and relaxing in no effort that shall help to keep the paper abreast of the demands of the community which repays it with such loyal support.

In added measure to meet more modern requirements the paper has just enlarged its periods of publication to three times a week. The change seems to meet with general approval. There are some of its readers who declare themselves as favoring the semi-weekly form, while others would not have us stop short of daily appearances. We are in hopes as our plans mature and things get shaken down that the present arrangement of every-other-week-day will satisfy the field which we aspire to occupy.

The Courier-Gazette is not the greatest newspaper in the world, but (as Daniel Webster said of Dartmouth College) there are those who love it. This must be so, else would the paper not continue to visit in the homes of its patrons year after year—there are still on its lists the names of subscribers placed there with the first issue in January, 1846. To every State in the Union, to the Provinces and across the ocean it goes three times a week, carrying friendly gossip of the Maine county by the sea. The past week has seen added to its list the names of subscribers in Hawaii and Siberia. "How far that little candle throws his beams."

To all those friends and supporters, near and far, here is our Happy New Year greeting, coupled with sincere appreciation of their many and continuing favors.

"When the evening shade is falling at the end of the day,
An' a feller rests from labor smokin' a pipe of clay,
There's nothin' does him so much good, he fortune up or down,
As the little country paper from his home town."

"It ain't a thing of beauty an' its print ain't always clean,
But it straightens out his temper when a feller's feelin' mean,
It wrinkles up his face an' brushes the wrinkles off his brow,
That little country paper from his home town."

"It tells of all the parties an' the balls of Pumpkin Row,
'Bout who spent Sunday with who's girl an' how the crop'll grow,
An' how it keeps a feller posted 'bout who's up an' who is down,
That little country paper from his home town."

"Now, I like to read the dailies an' the story papers, too,
An' at times the yellow novels an' some other trash don't you?
But when I want readin' that'll brush away a frown,
I want that little paper from my home town."

Secretary Daniels' attempt to administer a slap in the face to Admiral Sims met with the reception that it deserved. The gallant Admiral has as little use for the swivel-chair head of the Navy as every other officer has. There is no other instance on record where a Secretary of the Navy has had to accept such a withering rebuke as Daniels has just had to take from Admiral Sims. From any other than a member of President Wilson's cabinet it would call for his resignation. But the Danielses and the Bakers never resign. They are waiting for the country to turn them out.

The New Year message from the clergymen of the city is one of cheer and a call to every citizen to play his part in the forward movement that Rockland is experiencing. Co-operation—community service—every citizen building the piece of wall over against himself—that is the suggestion of the clergy, and we know that as a body and individually the pastors of our city churches stand ready to join hands with every good work whose purpose is civic progress and betterment.

England has doubled the pay of its naval officers and men. The United States Congress can't seem to pass a bill to increase our navy's pay even ten per cent. U. S. naval officers are living on the same salaries paid them in the past 25 years, what in these times is the pay of clerks and bookkeepers, and far below that of the average skilled workman. Need we wonder that the officers are resigning the service by the hundreds?

Dr. Croft's 1920 prophecy assures us that a Republican President is to be elected this year. But it needed no prophet or the son of a prophet to convince the country of that. Everybody acknowledges it, Democrats and all.

Let's all pay up and make it that much easier for the merchant to begin 1920.

Better swear off something today just to keep your hand in.

Girls, this is Leap Year.

THE DEERING CAMPAIGN

Ex-Representative Sutherland Finding Strong Support For the Saco Candidate for Republican Nomination

Kenneth W. Sutherland of Saco has been in the city this week in the interests of the campaign which is being waged to bring about the nomination of Senator John D. Deering as the Republican candidate for governor.

Long before the June primaries are held Mr. Sutherland, as a member of the Deering campaign committee, will have visited every county in the State. His tour has already taken him into Cumberland, Washington, Somerset, Franklin and Knox, and hundreds of loyal and influential Republicans have already taken a strong stand beneath the Deering banner. Extremely favorable reports also come to the committee from Oxford county.

The circular statement issued by the Deering campaign committee, containing a brief biographical sketch of the candidate and outlining some of the salient points of the platform upon which he stands, by way of preface it says:

"We do not present him as a favorite son, although he is one.
"We do not present him for his political record, although his family since 1856 has spent energy, money and time for the success of the Republican Party.
"We present him because he is a lawyer of extraordinary ability, a thoroughly trained business man and a progressive, upright and conscientious citizen."

Mr. Sutherland, who came into Knox county as a Deering worker scarcely needed credentials, for he served three terms in the State Legislature, and is well known to a number of the Republican leaders. In a statement to The Courier-Gazette yesterday he said:

"From the sentiment already shown we are very confident that Mr. Deering will receive the nomination. Although he is not so well known in Knox county as in other sections of the State, I have talked with many Republicans who are unqualifiedly for him. They do not believe that Col. Parkhurst can be nominated, and they are decidedly outspoken against a third term nomination for anybody."

ROCKLAND VESSEL ASHORE

The schooner Gilbert Standiford, bound from Calais for Boston, with lumber, went ashore on the south side of North Haven Thoroughfare yesterday, and a telephone message to the Snow Marine Co. reported her as on her beam end, full of water. It is understood that she sighted at high tide. The steam tug Sophia started to her assistance at 9:30 this morning.

FRIENDSHIP

Charles Wallace and family have moved into their house which they recently purchased of Daniel Wineapaw. Mrs. Roland Thompson called on friends at East Friendship Saturday. Wilbur Morse, who has been ill, is able to be out again.

The Adventist Conference convenes at Friendship Jan. 8 and holds over the following Sunday. Rev. Clarence Burr of Presque Isle, Elder Mayberry of Portland, Dr. Taylor and Elder Samuel Clark of this place are expected to be present. Following the conference, Mr. Burr will hold evangelistic meetings for two weeks. All are cordially invited to attend these meetings.

The Courier-Gazette is now issued every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday forenoon.

MESSAGES FOR NEW YEAR'S

Rockland Pastors Tell The Courier-Gazette Readers What They Believe Will Best Promote the City's Moral and Material Prosperity.

What, in your opinion, will best promote the city's moral and material prosperity in 1920, Maine's Centennial year?

In response to this question, which was propounded by the editor of The Courier-Gazette to all of the city pastors, the following replies, which well merit the reader's attention, were received:

By Rev. Philip A. Allen, Jr., pastor of the Universalist Church:
My heartiest greetings to Maine in her Centennial year and to Rockland in the year of her greatest achievement and promise. In this year of mighty plans and purposes it is fitting that we should retain the proud place we have occupied during the years. The sons of Maine, because of their courage, devotion and independence, have been great pioneers; now, the time calls us to conserve the inherited qualities of our forefathers to the task of being co-workers, neighbors, friends. As citizens of Rockland we have never lacked the pride of achievement and the hope of progress and today as the craven of the years placed within our hands, it depends on us whether we shall wear it with honor or shall pass it to hands able to bear it. Let us labor with diligence, plan with intelligence, acquire with righteousness and give with love to the end that our community may be a city of friends and that the success of the part may be the success of the whole.

By Rev. J. Stanley Crossland, pastor of Pratt Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church:

In our farewell to the year 1919 many of us said, "Good bye, Good bye, thou saddest of sad years," but how different we feel this year 1920. As we look back on the year in the face we feel like saying "Farewell thou greatest of great years." Most of the boys are home again, the war is won, and we have peace, the best of our hearts and our homes. With such a joy we render thanks to Almighty God, praying that our gratitude may reveal itself in works of service.

The year 1920 is Maine's Centennial year. In what better way can we celebrate the anniversary than by devoting special attention to the moral and material prosperity of our city? Three considerations for the New Year may be as follows:

First, the churches must not function as individual communities, but as one church. As one church we must give such service as the community demands. A many-sided service with a variety of organizations; a timely service, doing things that others are not ready to do; and a religious service of the most practical character.

Second, all fraternal organizations may unite in some community enterprise for the betterment of the city. The issue may be a wider social vision and a deeper social consciousness. Too often social life has been a by-product and not a direct aim. Whenever any other agency can really do a thing better than the church can, it should be allowed to do it. Many social tasks remain too complicated for direct performance by church machinery.

Third, the heads of city government, the public officials, the local newspapers, and all institutions working for the moral and material welfare of humanity must have the community mind. Partisan methods do not work in this age. By all pulling together we can win, and by no other method can we cope with the problems of a growing population.

During 1920 let us stand shoulder to shoulder, and as we present our equally combined results.

"The tears of the sower and songs of the reaper. Shall mingle together in joy, bye and bye."

By Rev. Howard A. Welch, pastor of the Littlefield Memorial Church:
The New Year faces us with a challenge, which nerves us to snap the fetters of the past and to spring into line, ready for work and service. It promises real success, but only on certain conditions. If we cannot do well, we must obey the laws of health. If we would gain in mental vigor, it is required that we give attention to good reading and sturdy thinking. If we would win character, we must be willing to forego many pleasurable but worthless indulgences. If we would realize the rewards of service we are challenged to choose the wiser of two paths, choose the path of "ease" and personal comfort; then give in to the tendency toward laziness and inertia, and be assured of defeat at the end of 1920. Choose difficulty, toil and struggle and be assured of genuine success in the nearer attainment of life's purpose by January 1, 1921.

If we would see a corresponding development along moral and material lines in Rockland this coming year, we can find no better motto to guide us in all the varied relationships of our civil life than the rugged words of the old prophet of long ago: "Do justly, love mercy and walk humbly with thy God."

By Rev. Walter S. Rounds, pastor of the Congregational Church:

During the early part of the war the Chicago Tribune made a nationwide hit with an editorial entitled, "Don't Rock the Boat." It was stirring call for the steady and harmonizing of the national will in a critical hour of American life. It was a plea for the American people to get together in the achievement of a common purpose. The specific end sought was realized in the signing of the armistice. The past year, however, has been one of reaction. There have been a series of psychic explosions. Unrest has been visible everywhere. There has been an orgy of spending, speculation, strikes and profiteering. The United States has been a nation of joy-riders. Some of the national guardians have appointed and self-appointed, have hoisted danger signals, but the public has given them scant attention. One is reminded of the old saw, "We don't know where we're going, but we're on the way."

Again the counsel is needed—"Don't Rock the Boat." The steady working of purpose is demanded. To do the day's work honorably and well, to avoid excesses, to live simply and clearly, to stick to tried and true methods and ideals is a good prescription for the ills that beset us. And I know of nothing better for Rockland in the year 1920, and for the State of Maine in her Centennial year.

By Rev. A. E. Scott, rector of St. Peter's Episcopal Church:

Beyond all doubt 1920 is a critical year. To the world of nations, just relieved from a monstrous impending calamity, it is a time of convalescence, when mutual suspicions, adroitly planted by the enemies of right, make one wonder if the noblest ideals are after all better than the old reign of night. To our country, after a united achievement of spiritual victory unequalled in human history comes a reaction in which our very unity seems threatened by the selfishness of class opposition to the decision for our country and state, our country and humanity, are after all made up of many such atoms as we. Until our decisions are clearly made, the times are critical ones.

The Lord Christ asks, "What shall I profit a man, if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" Because Beigum paid a price, but did not thereby lose her soul, she is truly great today. We have passed through a crisis in which the supreme value of honor and righteousness, not only in personal life, but in business and in politics, has become a part of our conviction. Evil is ever rising with hydra-headed vigilance, but never again is it allowed its old-time sway in our world. In spite of the agony of readjustment, the world is facing better days, and it is to be our privilege to make our convictions of good a part of the new world's surging life.

By Rev. Willard L. Pratt, pastor of the First Baptist Church:

In answer to the request for a brief article on what would best promote moral and material prosperity of our city in our Centennial year, 1920, I would suggest that Rockland's greatest need for this new era in her life is not more money spent among us; it is not bigger business; it is not a city management board; it is not a fine new high school; or a Memorial Building; or finer churches; or even a great religious revival, as much as she needs the latter. Our city needs all these things, but she needs something more, and that "something" is a great, big, wonderful, Community Spirit.

What a fine thing it would be if we could get together the following group of representative community leaders: The editors of our city papers, the heads of our business organizations, the representatives of our local professions, the medical profession, the superintendent of schools, representatives from the churches, the labor unions, the fraternities, the woman's clubs, and other bodies of citizens, and meeting once in a while to talk over the common tasks before us, arriving at a common mind, and develop a community consciousness, which would soon create the most helpful and healthy community life in the Grand Old State of Maine, and Rockland would be the "Dirigo" of the biggest forward movement in the community life of the State.

This is no dream; it is the scientific law upon which the progress of the community must go forward. If the leaders of our splendid growing city will follow it in some form or other, the results will be as sure as the sunrise, and a big and blessed reward will come into the lives of all people, that will make all happy and give the community from the bolshievishe spirit of the age.

PARK THEATRE

A dual attraction which sets every town talking is seen today in Mack Sennett's Italian girls and his greatest force production "Yankee Doodle in Berlin." The girls are the same ones who pose for the Mack Sennett comedies, and appear in person in a beautiful staged act and series of illuminated poses in connection with the film comedy. Previous to the present tour they have never been seen outside of closely guarded studio haunts.

The picture, "Yankee Doodle in Berlin" which is said to set the high mark for the comedy king of the screen, will be found five reels of mirth sustained at a high pitch instead of the customary two from Sennett, and all the Sennett farcours assembled in one array for a broadside of ridicule at German bluff and bluster. Charlie Murray plays an Irish soldier; Ford Sterling enacts the Kaiser; Chester Conklin and Ben Turpin, Marie Prevost and Eva Thelander are ideally cast. The Sennett Balancing Beauties splash their way into consistent scenes and bothwell Browne, the noted male actor of feminine roles, was engaged for what may be considered the pivotal part—that of an American aviator, who, in disguise, as a gay petal household and learns both state "vamp," works his way into the inner and domestic secrets of value to the U. S. Government.

E. W. Cummings, of Lewiston, formerly of Maine Central, is in this city, a visitor here, between trains Tuesday night.

Two teams from the East Coast Fisheries boomed at Colcord alleys Tuesday evening. The Cutters defeated the Skinners 104 plus.

W. C. Gamache, local agent for the Metropolitan Insurance Co., has gone to Fall River for a few days' vacation. He will return next Monday.

F. C. Vinal who bought the Dickey house on Lincoln street in New Rockland, has been hauling up for the winter. Capt. Butman having gone to Boston for a few months, Mr. Vinal will take passengers and freight. Bertram Wallace carries the mail.

The principal holidays this year will fall on these dates and days: Washington's Birthday, Sunday; St. Patrick's Day, Wednesday; Patriot's Day, Monday; Memorial Day, Sunday; John's Day, (Masonic), Thursday; Independence Day, Sunday; Labor Day, Monday; Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 25; Christmas Day, Saturday. And it's not too early to begin making plans for any of these occasions.

Calvin Austin, president of the Eastern Steamship Lines, Inc., has been in the city this week, and with Capt. F. S. Sherman took up the matter of a new steamboat terminal. While it is announced that no decision had been reached, it is understood unofficially that the steamship company has in option on a privilege which it may build a new dock, and that it has also received a favorable proposition from the Maine Central Railroad as to the use of Maine Central wharf.

Two receipts handed down from the Law Court involve important points of law. One, a Lincoln county case, holds that the administrators of a boy, 12 years of age, who was killed by coming in contact with a high voltage wire while climbing a tree through which the insulated wires run, may recover damages and that it is not necessary that the declaration contain a specific allegation of duty owed by the defendant company to the plaintiff. The second receipt holds that an assignment of an A. O. U. W. beneficiary certificate was ineffectual by reason of the intestate having failed to follow out the instruction as to such assignment as set forth in the by-laws of the lodge.

Much interest in Rockland and vicinity is manifested over tonight's wrestling exhibition, which will take place at the Rockland Athletic Club. Some of the fans recently had an opportunity to see Charles Metro, and they are willing to wager their Christmas neckties that he will keep Dr. McCarty, the New York policeman busy. The local fans have also seen Kid Boland of Lewiston, whose claims to the lightweight championship of America are substantiated by the wonderful belt which he carries. Tonight he will be matched against Young Schemm of New York, who also has a long record of victories.

Rockland Lodge, A. O. U. W., held regular meeting Tuesday night with a good attendance, and worked the master workman degree on a class of candidates. After the initiation a fine program was given, including music by the lodge orchestra, a recitation by Walter Knight, a song by Robert McIntosh, remarks by S. E. Welt and Sister Chapin and music by Mrs. Huntley. The lodge is to have a box supper next Tuesday night, the boxes to be sold at auction.

On the balcony of the historic old State House in Boston, the day before Christmas, the brass quartet of the Massachusetts State Guards, gave a delightful program in the honor of Christmas. The square on State street in front was thronged with spectators and those using the street delayed as much as was permitted, to listen. One of the numbers was a Christmas carol, composed by a native of Rockland, Mrs. A. D. Small of Abington, Mass.

CARS AFTER THE DANCE

While it is reported that the United Artists' Corporation has obtained a theatre site in this city, and is going ahead with plans for a new building having large seating capacity, the important information as to where that location is has not been divulged. The Courier-Gazette is authorized to announce that the entrance of another theatrical concern into Rockland will move after the intentions of the Maine Theatres, Inc., to build a new theatre here the coming year, as announced in this paper several months ago.

All who have ever roller skated, or had an itching desire to indulge in that fascinating sport, are eagerly awaiting tonight's opening of the rink at the Training Station building. A brand new floor has just been laid and rendered absolutely smooth with a patent device brought here from Bath. The surface has also been smoothed by the removal of the platform at the eastern end of the building. Another consignment of new skates is on its way to this city, and Manager Trent will soon be ready to give his patrons better service than they had ever dreamed of having again in Rockland.

Watch Night was observed according to custom by the Methodist church, with this innovation, that the other churches of the city were invited to join, and accepted. Beginning at 9 o'clock the first hour was given over to the laymen, addresses being made by Frank H. Ingraham, Baptist, Supl. Harry C. Hull, Congregationalist, and Judge L. R. Campbell, Universalist. Reviewing "The Blessings of 1919" Mr. Ingraham enumerated woman suffrage, the Loyal Legion, the great church movements, and greatest of all, Nations of prohibition. Among Rockland's blessings he named Thomas Hawken, whose zeal and courage had done much to bring about improved moral conditions. Touching on "The Perils of 1919" Supl. Hull swept the fields of history from Socrates downward, describing perils in each age, but which had not prevented the world's progress toward higher things. The greatest opponent of present perils, he said, is the faithful teacher in the public schools. Judge Campbell, discussing "The Outlook for 1920," argued in favor of shooting the red-handed anarchist, but thought that free speech was a greater defense against national perils than wholesale deportations. The religion of Jesus Christ, he said, had into practical and general effect, will solve every problem, personal and national. Refreshments were served, followed by an hour or religious service led by the city pastors, ending in the season of consecration as the year drew to its close. As 1919 vanished the church bell tolled, and immediately the joyous notes of the bell ushered in 1920.

Mayo Payson is home from Portland to spend the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Payson.

J. L. Fillion has employment with Fred Simmons, East Union, for the winter.

Misses Jeanette and Eva Taylor are attending High School at Union, following the Christmas recess.

Cards have been received announcing the marriage on Dec. 23 of William Andrews Fokier of Philadelphia, formerly of this place, to Myrtle Sentman of Doylestown, Penn. Congratulations are extended.

Mrs. Ella Taylor has returned from Hudson, Mass., for a visit with relatives.

School resumed Dec. 30, for the winter term, with Mrs. Eva Taylor as teacher.

Mrs. Eva L. Taylor closed a very successful term of school of 14 weeks Dec. 19. Whooping cough prevailed and several pupils were obliged to remain at home part of the term. Those not absent were Doris Wooster, Stanley Payson, Hazel Leonard, John Dunbar, Virginia Dunbar and Myrven Merrill. Madeline Childs and Norfolk Doughty were absent one day each. The last afternoon Christmas exercises were held. Excellent original Christmas stories were written and read by the scholars. A tree was prettily decorated and held a present for each one. The teacher hung a bag of confectionery for every one; she received several presents from her pupils. To the surprise and merriment of the little ones Santa Claus arrived and satisfying himself at a glance that all were deserving, happily made his exit. Several visitors were present.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking the friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of my father, W. A. Raymond.

Mrs. Mildred Condon.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all who extended sympathy, and for the beautiful floral tributes in our recent bereavement.

Mrs. Almon B. Chapin and family.

NEAR EAST RELIEF

He is only one of 250,000 helpless child victims oppression in Western Asia. Chad just as he stands in the picture this poor little fellow, with hunger-stricken cheeks, hopeless mouth and frail, shrunken body, was found wandering in the streets of Iqdir, Armenia, by Dr. Milton S. Littlefield of the Near East Relief. He was taken to a Near East Relief orphanage, where it was found that his only earthly possession was the single garment in which he stood—a worn, patched blanket made from a burlap sack.

"I saw this ragged little fellow on one of the busiest business streets of Erivan, not far from the orphanage," said Dr. Littlefield. "He was wandering aimlessly about and no one was paying the slightest attention to him. I did not pose him; the picture shows just the way he stood when I backed him up against a nearby wall."

The photograph is the basis of a striking poster now being distributed by Near East Relief.

An American $2 Bill Did This

Before. Motherless, fatherless, homeless, nameless, hungry and clad only in rags, the pathetic little three-year-old shown at the left wandered into a Near East Relief orphanage in Armenia. Another photograph of the same child, shown at the right, was taken a week later, this time showing him happy, well clothed and well fed.

Somewhere in America is the happy man or woman who contributed the $2 bill which wrought this miracle. More than a quarter million other helpless little victims of Turkish cruelty and oppression are knocking at the doors of the Near East Relief orphanages in Western Asia. Many more American $2 bills are needed now to let them in and to care for them until they can care for themselves.

TOWN TALK FLOUR

THE NEW RED BLOODED ARGUS
MAINE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER

If there ever was a time when newspapers should be red-blooded, it is now. If there was ever a time when they should be to the spirit of commercialism, when they should leave of any allegiance which they may have had to this faction, that faction and other faction and give their allegiance unreservedly to the spirit of Americanism it is now.

The world is in greater peril today than during the war period. One half of the world is determined to subvert the other half. Capitalism in conflict with Labor for supremacy and Labor in conflict with Capital for supremacy, and the rank and file are paying for the result.

The chronic call today, if we are to save the Democracy, is to us by our forefathers at Lexington and Concord, preserved by our fathers at Gettysburg and Appomattox and snatched from the grasp of Prussian slavery by our sons on Flinders Field, is for a "dynasty" of the red-blooded Americanism, for men and women with red corpuscles in their veins, who will stand aside and watch themselves go by, and care not what would be their neighbor become?

The Argus answers the call. Audibly consents of the influence of the public Press, it pledges however much that influence it may possess or acquire, to the defense of our Democracy and the sustaining and developing the Spirit of true Americanism.

We are about to launch a campaign in behalf of our fellowmen. We shall touch the high cost of living, and turn a searchlight into some avenues of profit-seeking. We shall discuss Bolshevism promoted in this country, and even in our midst. We shall discuss the meretriciousness of the unions. We shall take up our Educational systems, Maine and discuss the qualification and salaries of our teachers. We shall discuss the question of union and point to some injustices that seem to obtain. We shall point to the laborer, the merchant and the middle class folk, whose must look to the end of Democracy against the contending autocracies of the U. S. In short, we shall discuss many a timely topic in a red-blooded way.

Send $3.00 today and follow us in our campaign in behalf of Real Red-Blooded Americanism

Grain Corporation Standard Pure Wheat Flour now available

THIS is the flour recently purchased by the Government to sell to the public at approximately 6c per pound; that is, around 75c for 12 pound package and $1.50 for 24 1/2 pound package.

It is a good flour, favored by good cooks. Cut down the cost of living by buying United States Grain Corporation Flour, or similar flour, from your dealers.

This year's crop of Soft Red Winter Wheat is yielding flour of excellent bread making quality.

Housewives should become acquainted with this splendid flour. They will find that it works easily and rises quickly. The fermentation is vigorous and healthy and the resulting loaf is of superior texture and good color.

For pastries, biscuits, and cake no flour makes a more delicate, tender crust and crumb.

This flour is now on hand and for sale at

DON'T NEGLECT A RHEUMATIC PAIN

Go after it with Sloan's Liniment before it gets dangerous

Apply a little, don't rub, let it penetrate, and—good-by twinge! Same for external aches, pains, strains, stiffness of joints or muscles, lameness, bruises, sprains, rheumatism, neuralgia, etc. Instant relief without messiness or soiled clothing. Reliable—the biggest test the member year after year. Evident and their ship of enormous sales, every possible kind of Sloan's Liniment in the amount of time it requires; otherwise we would witness one of the greatest triumphs of the entire war.

Not Gonna Do Anything.
Lucinda was testing the devotion of Ernest.

"Spose it is night and we are in a deep, black woods. There comes a ho'er constricter a-wrigglin' through the grass; an' a wildcat a-boundin' through the bushes; an' a lion roarin' an' makin' for us a mile a minute. What are we gonna do?"

"There ain't gonna be no we,"—Christian Register.

These Flimsy Gowns.
"Here's a scientist says that women should eat more than men. They need more food to keep them warm."

"I can see they'll have to depend on something besides their clothes."

Consistency.
Mrs. McNab—I want three salt herring, please.

Shopkeeper—I don't keep them. You see, I am a temperance man myself, an' I don't want to draw my customers into temptation.

On the Veranda.
"Sausages are so delicious. Have you ever tried that kind?"

"Only once; my husband is such a golf fiend he won't eat any kind but the links."

Won Her Over.
First Suffragette—So you succeeded in converting Mrs. Fickle?

Second Suffragette—Yes; I designed a perfectly fetching campaign costume and showed it to her.

Appropriately Dressed.
"Why do you wear that costume? It looks like half mourning."

"Well, every evening when you come home from the office you complain of being half dead."

CIRCUMSTANCES.

"What do you think of a girl who would break her promise?"

"I should have to know what the promise was."

Overoptimizing.
On happiness we must insist. And yet, to speak my mind aright, I do not like the optimist.

Who smiles and will not work or fight.

Why He Resigned.
"Why did you resign from the Don't Worry club?"

"I discovered that the way the rest go out of worrying was by telling all their troubles to me."

Truly Grateful.
Footpad—And now I'll trouble you to take off that suit of clothes.

Jones—Thanks awfully. Only for you my wife would have made me wear it for two years more.

Afraid.
"And why won't you come to see me in my new country home, Norah?"

"Cos I'm afraid. I heard mother say that you had a big skeleton in your cupboard!"—Exchange

A Physical Impossibility.
"You can't split hairs over the statement."

"Why not?"
"Because there's nothing in it but bald facts."

A Gentle Hint.
"Madam, is your dog named Rome?"

"No, sir; what makes you think it is?"

"I've been noticing your boy is making it howl."

Nor for Anything Else.
"That messenger boy could never make a political success."

"Why not?"
"Because he never could be induced to run for office."

All Alike.
"She's the head of their family all right."

"Yes, he's no better off in that respect than any of the rest of us."

Woman Suffered in Silence

Health Poor, Beauty Fast Fading Away-- Made Believe She Was Well

A business woman writes: "There must be lots of women who feel as I did. I suffered in silence many times on account of my peevish, but now I know that a good laxative is essential to good health. I neglected my health trying to keep cheery and pretending I was all right when I wasn't. I had terrible pains, was 'grouchy' and my head aches almost killed me with pain and weariness of all from my viewpoint. I had a sallow, unbecoming complexion which was not helped by face powders. Why didn't I try to cure myself rather than pretend? After taking Dr. True's Elixir, I now know that a laxative was what I needed. Dr. True's Elixir is mild and pleasant to take, and works just right for me. My complexion cleared up—bright and ruddy—blemishes vanished and every one remarked how much better I looked."—Mrs. E. J. B., New Auburn, Me.

The root of many of the evils of sickness is the bowels, a very vital part of the human body.

A cold, a fever, diseases of the like can be remedied at once, providing the operation of the bowels is normal—the first and most important relief can be had by giving a laxative, but be sure it is the proper kind.

Most everybody in these days of quick action and strife, forget their health. The laboring people bolt down their meals, often go to bed right after eating, and wake up in the morning restless, force down a breakfast and are distressed all day.

An Outdoor Worker says: "I couldn't puzzle out what made me feel so bad. My good, home-cooked meals didn't

In Social Circles

In addition to personal notes recording deaths and arrivals, this department especially desires information of social happenings, parties, musicals, etc. Notes sent by mail or telephone will be gladly received.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rockliffe left Monday for Kittery where they will spend a few days, before returning to Fairhaven, Mass., after a month's vacation in this city and vicinity.

Miss Harriet Curtis went to Boston Saturday to be met by her mother, Mrs. G. B. Curtis, and will go to Whitinsville for the winter. Mrs. Curtis' son-in-law, Harold Stetson, of Thomaston, is to occupy her home for the winter.

Mrs. Nellie Geddes Fisk is home from a long visit with her daughter Louise G. Fisk in Framingham, relatives in Boston, her daughter, Mrs. George Gove in Niantic, Conn., and sister Annie and cousin, Mrs. Morgan, in Hartford, Conn.

Capt. and Mrs. W. G. Bulman have gone to Winchester, Mass., to spend the winter with their daughter, Mr. E. C. Howe.

Samuel Farwell of the University of Maine is spending the week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Farwell, at 10 Claremont street.

Mrs. A. W. Butler, who is spending the winter in this city, becomes the guest Saturday of Col. and Mrs. Frank C. Knight.

Miss Bessie Reed of New York has been a guest of Mrs. Fred T. Vozile for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Rose, who left home on Christmas Day, after a brief stop at Richmond, Va., are now at Hotel Boyce, St. Petersburg, Fla., where they will enjoy life for the next three months.

Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Taylor leave tomorrow for a two months trip which will include an extended visit in Havana, Cuba. They will return to Rockland about the middle of April, and then leave for Grimsby, England, for a month's stay. It had been their intention to go abroad this winter, but the difficulty of securing reservations for the return voyage led them to defer the trip. On the eve of their departure they gave a theatre party, with 40 guests, at the Park, and a pleasant surprise connected therewith was the unannounced first showing of the moving pictures made here on "Pelican Day." The night was quite a lengthy one, showing the catching of herring, manufacture of sardines, scenes in the harbor and at the East Coast Terminal Docks attending the arrival of the Pelican, and many interesting views of the big fish plant, then in its infancy. The pictures were made by Pithers, best film man, and were exceptionally clear. The prominent figures in connection with the East Coast Fisheries Company were easily distinguished. The members of the theatre party returned to the Thorndike Hotel, where they were charmingly entertained by their host and hostess. The hotel parlor, attractively decorated and illuminated, presented a typical New Year's Eve scene in conjunction with the luxuriously furnished suite of the Taylors just across the corridor. Buffet lunch was served. To the members of that party it was a decidedly pleasant passing of the old year and coming of the new.

Former Superintendent of Schools West, now of Needham, Mass., remembered Rockland friends with Christmas cards unique in character, inasmuch as they carried the announcement of arrival at the West home on Dec. 21 of the new member in that family, Helen Lee West, who began life with a weight of 74 pounds.

Wight Philharmonic Society will resume its rehearsals tonight. Members should go prepared to buy the music for the coming year. It can be obtained of the librarian, Mrs. J. B. Flye.

Joseph H. Berman of Worcester, Mass., representative of the Modern Pans Co., is the guest of David Grubbers.

The members of the Unique Club acted as housekeepers at the Universalist circle supper Wednesday night. The housekeepers were Mrs. Abbie Campbell, Mrs. Mabel Rawson, Mrs. Hattie Prescott, Mrs. Sarah Billings, Mrs. Mary Blithen and Miss Myrtle Herriek.

William H. Weed, who has been spending the holidays with his wife in this city, left Tuesday for Portland, where he will join his ship, which sails soon for a foreign port.

Open house is kept at the Country Club his New Year Day afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Henry Bird entertained women of the Congregational church at her home on Broadway Tuesday, it being virtually a mothers' meeting for the purpose of enlivening interest in the Sunday school.

A second operation upon M. A. Johnson at Knox Hospital Tuesday resulted very successfully, and strong hopes are now entertained as to his early and complete recovery.

Mrs. A. T. Backington gave a tea Tuesday afternoon. Take the 1.30 car. Mabelle Spring, who is home from Hingham, Mass., for the holidays.

The Good Cheer Sewing Circle will meet with Mrs. Maude Glidden next Tuesday afternoon. Take the 1.30 car.

Miss Helen Thompson has entered Farmington Normal School.

Stephen H. Cables, Jr., has returned to the osteopathy school in Kirksville, Mo.

Miss Thelma Freeman of Delport is visiting Mr. and Mrs. B. Norman Marsh, Broad street.

John Sullivan is home from Bridgeport, Conn., called by the illness of his mother, Mrs. Edward Sullivan.

Lloyd Benner is home from New Britain, Conn., the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Benner.

Many friends in this city of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Chapman will extend sympathy to Mrs. Chapman because of the loss of her father, Samuel Faulkner of Chicago who died suddenly in that city. Mr. Faulkner during the first few years of the festival always accompanied the Chappmans to assist in the festival management. Mrs. Faulkner died about a year ago. Mr. Faulkner was 91

Is Your Motor Extravagant in Gasoline?

That depends largely on the quality of your gasoline and the mixture you use.

With high quality, uniform gasoline and the carburetor adjusted to insure complete, clean combustion, any motor will show gasoline economy and dependable power whether crawling in traffic or pulling up a heavy grade. The careful, rigid processes of refining and testing SOCONY Motor Gasoline guarantee its high quality and uniformity. Simply adjust your carburetor to SOCONY and stick to it. Then you'll get big mileage out of your gasoline. It is uniform, rapid-fire, clean-burning and power-full wherever you get it. For motoring economy standardize on SOCONY.

At filling time look for the red, white and blue SOCONY Sign.

MRS. OSCAR WYMAN FRENCH

Mrs. Angela Furber (Perry), wife of Capt. Oscar Wyman French, after an illness of only four days died Christmas morning. The funeral services took place at her late home at Lincolnville Beach, Dec. 27. Numerous and beautiful floral tributes, contributed by friends and relatives of the deceased from various states, surrounded the casket. Capt. French's brother, Allen D. French, who makes his summer home here, is spending the winter in Orlando, Florida, but was represented by his son Clarence F. French, who came from Wallham, Mass., to attend the services. The bearers were Emerson French, Orrin Ames, Frank Dunean, Willis Monroe, Rev. Mr. Griffith of Camden officiated. Mrs. French was a woman of exceptional strength of mind and beauty of character, with rare powers of memory, an even temper, a cheerful, unflinching optimism and cheerfulness of temperament. Her lovable traits had endeared her to a wide circle and she will be deeply mourned. Despite her nearly 84 years, her uncommon faculties had been preserved intact, notably her remarkably retentive memory.

The deceased was born Jan. 23, 1836, in Northport on the eighth Perry homestead near the shore, the place being known later as the Wright farm, now occupied as a summer home by the Dessal family from Philadelphia. Capt. and Mrs. French had observed the 63rd anniversary of their marriage Sept. 6, 1919. Mrs. French was pre-eminently a home-stayer and a homemaker, the soul of hospitality, having dispensed wide hospitality during the last years of her life. Her home in Belfast, herself the central and favorite figure of a coterie of the younger set, which found her always sympathetic and companionable.

In common with her husband Mrs. French was of Revolutionary ancestry, the official commission of her grandfather, John Perry of Vinalhaven, having been signed by John Hancock. John Perry rendered such valiant service in 1781 as commander of the boat Fly, navigated by 14 men, that a price was set on his head by the British. He was obliged to remove from Vinalhaven; after his Rockland home was burned to the ground by the British soldiers in vain search for him. Perry Rock, situated not far from Perry Cove, Vinalhaven, named in commemoration of John Perry's exploits against the British, is an island landmark.

Mrs. French was the youngest of eight children, one brother, Capt. Robert W. Perry, Lincolnville, surviving. She is also survived by her husband, O. W. French, and all her children, two of whom, Howard and May were present at the services; Mrs. Fred N. Fletcher, Carson, Nevada; Mrs. J. Frank Rich, Rockland; Howard French, New York City and Robert Allen French, San Francisco.

ALMON B. CHAPLESS

After a long and painful illness Almon B. Chapless, aged 74 years, died on Christmas Day. He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Perry; one son, Walter Chapless; two brothers, E. R. Chapless and J. M. Chapless; and several grandchildren. He was a kind and loving husband and father, and his chief enjoyment of life was his home. Funeral services were held Sunday at his late home 43 Weeks street, Rev. P. A. Allen, Jr., officiating. The bearers were W. A. Chapless, H. Lissok, H. B. Harlow and J. H. Peltier. The interment was in Acorn cemetery.

ALDEN EUGENE SPEAR

Alden Eugene Spear, whose sudden death was noted in our Tuesday issue, was born in this city, Oct. 6, 1883, son of Allen T. and Jane (Ulmer) Spear. After the death of his mother, he and his brother Sereno T. Spear went to live with their grandmother, Mrs. Jane Spear, who resided on the site now occupied by Hotel Rockland, said to be one of the oldest brick houses in this section. Grandmother Spear often confided with interest that she had lived in two states, two counties, two towns and one city, without once moving from this home. As the boys became older they went to Boston, where they made their home with their uncle, Alexander Young, who is still living at an advanced age. The deceased attended Williams School, and the last letter which his brother, Sereno, received from him told of his plans to attend the annual reunion of that school this month.

Mr. Spear, after leaving school, worked for a while with the Shepherd Thresher Co. of Boston. The brothers then bought the Bellingham Car Station at Chelsea, Mass., a junction for the Lynn and Metropolitan cars. The deceased became sole proprietor about a quarter century ago, and remained in this business a period of about 30 years, until it was wiped out along with his home in the great Chelsea fire.

He had always cherished a strong affection for his native city, and having inherited property from his uncles Ambrose, Alexander and Alonzo Snow, he came here about seven years ago, and took up his residence on the Snow estate, opposite to the Maine General depot. This property he sold several months ago, and at the time of his death occupied apartments at the residence of Mrs. G. A. Flint on Laurel street. The death last March of his wife, formerly Ella Gray, was a very severe blow to him as the couple had been inseparable.

Mr. Spear was a member of the Chelsea lodge of Odd Fellows. He was an extensive reader of daily events, and few men were better posted on current topics. Added to this was a great fund of information which he had accumulated during his 30 years' business career in suburban Boston. He was genial and companionable, and will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends.

Mr. Spear is survived by one brother, Sereno T. Spear, who is here to attend the funeral, accompanied by his youngest daughter, Miss Margaret Spear.

The funeral services will be held from the residence of Dexter Simmons, Knox street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon, Rev. Mr. Allen officiating.

Mrs. Pansy Hibbert has gone to Augusta where she has a position as nurse at the State Hospital. Her daughter Irene accompanied her and will board in Augusta. Mr. Hibbert is night fireman at the hospital.

Several from here attended the masquerade ball at Burketville last Friday night. Mrs. Maudie Lester, who has been very ill for the last few weeks, continues to improve. Mrs. John S. Glidden received news Monday that her granddaughter, Mrs. Jennie Hannan Maine of Providence has a little daughter, born Dec. 24. The young lady has been named Virginia Miriam.

B. K. Ware and son Willard were in Portland last week. Master Willard has to take a trip to Portland once a month where he is taking treatment for a hip disease. attending school at the Bucksport Seminary, is home for the holiday vacation. Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Overlock spent Christmas at Union, where they were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Messer.

Mrs. Ada Jones, who had a shock a few weeks ago, is able to get around the house a little.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Howard of Union spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Overlock.

Near East Situation Now "Most Desperate in World," Says Hoover.

Herbert Hoover, who has now become a member of the Executive Committee of Near East Relief, which is caring for nearly 2,000,000 Armenian and Syrian refugees and who speaks with authority when he tells of human suffering, says in a formal statement:

"In my opinion, the situation in the Near East is the most desperate in the world."

Mr. Hoover has sent a letter to Cleveland H. Dodge, treasurer of Near East Relief, 1 Madison avenue, New York, in which he says:

"In accepting your invitation to become a member of the Executive Committee of the Near East committee, I do so with reluctance, but out of a sense of duty towards one of the most difficult situations in Europe. Until some political settlement can be obtained for the Near East and some government established in responsibility for the care and repatriation of the Armenian population in the Caucasus, this mass of people must live cheerily by the charity of the United States. There are in the Caucasus approximately 1,800,000 Armenians, of whom 800,000 are entirely destitute—refugees from Turkey—and amongst them a tremendous mass of children. "I cannot too strongly urge upon the members of the committee and their supporters the critical necessity of concentrating every possible effort to support Colonel Haskell's administration in the amounts that he requires; otherwise we shall witness one of the greatest tragedies of the entire war."

Happy New Year to all.

A vast amount of work now remains to be done which the intervention of war has necessarily delayed and accumulated, and the result is that a very large capital expenditure ought to be made to make up for the interruptions inevitably due to the war, and to prepare the railroads to serve adequately the increased traffic throughout the country.
WALKER D. HINES,
Director General of Railroads.

Work more— Produce more— Save more—

But we can't continue increasing our production unless we continue increasing our railroad facilities.

The farms, mines and factories cannot increase their output beyond the capacity of the railroads to haul their products.

Railroads are now near the peak of their carrying capacity.

Without railroad expansion—more engines, more cars, more tracks, more terminals—there can be little increase in production.

But this country of ours is going to keep right on growing—and the railroads must grow with it.

To command in the investment markets the flow of new capital to expand railroad facilities—and so increase production—there must be public confidence in the future earning power of railroads.

The nation's business can grow only as fast as the railroads grow.

THE WEEK IN REVIEW

The Close of the Session

The closing days of the session of Congress, before the holiday recess, were among the most fruitful. The Senate passed the Cummins railroad bill, by a vote of 46 to 39, first voting down, 65 to 11, the proposal of Senator La Follette for the retention of the roads for two years in Government operation. The two branches adjusted their differences with regard to sugar control and sent to the President a measure extending Federal control through 1920, and continuing the licensing system until the first of July. The House passed, by unanimous vote, a bill to provide for the exclusion and deportation of aliens who are members or supporters of anarchistic or similar organizations.

Home Rule for Ireland

Undeterred by the attempted assassination of Viscount French, the lord lieutenant of Ireland, Premier Lloyd-George, Dec. 22, presented in the House of Commons an outline of the proposed Home Rule bill for Ireland, prefacing it with the statement that Great Britain cannot accept separation, and characterizing the attempt to murder Viscount French as "one of the most cowardly and foolish incidents in the history of political crimes." The Government's proposal is to set up two parliaments in Ireland—one for the Catholics in the South, and one for the Protestants of the North and East, with a Council selected from both, which, it is hoped, will eventually bring about a union of the whole country under a single parliament.

Details of the Plan

Under this plan, if it could once be put in operation with the approval of the Irish people, the Irish legislatures would have full control of education, local government, land, agriculture, roads, bridges, transportation, old age pensions, insurance, municipal affairs and licensing. Control of the police would not be retained in imperial hands for more than three years. The proceeds of land annuities in Ireland, amounting to about $15,000,000 annually, would be a free gift to the two parliaments; and each of the parliaments would be given $5,000,000 for the initial expenditures. English sentiment, on the whole, is favorable to the experiment; and the Ulsterites, who bitterly opposed the earlier Home Rule bill, and blocked its enforcement, reported to be willing to accept the proposed measure; but there are no signs of yielding on the part of the Sinn Feiners.

The Soviet "Ark"

On Sunday, the 21st of December, the Government transport Bufon, otherwise known as the Soviet "Ark," sailed from New York, carrying the first instalment of Russian anarchists, assembled from various parts of the country for deportation to Russia. Among them were the most conspicuous of the anarchist leaders, Alexander Berkman and Emma Goldman, who have been for a long time out on bail, free to carry on their propaganda; and, with them, 247 other kindred spirits. Goldman announced her purpose, as soon as she reached Russia, to organize the "Russian Friends of American Freedom" to carry on a propaganda in the United States; and Berkman stated that he expected to share with Lenin and Trotsky the government of Russia. The group went out, shouting "To hell with America" and chanting "Long live the revolution in the United States."

The "Big Five" Yield

The so-called "Big Five" Chicago meat packing companies, which had not only acquired practical control of the packing industry, but had reached out in all directions for the purchase or control of affiliated companies, until the parent companies or the individuals who controlled them had composed them controlled 574 corporations and were progressing rapidly toward a complete absorption of all food product industries, have yielded to the demands of the Government, which were being pressed in the courts by dissolution suits, and have agreed to end their activities, except as meat packers. Had they gone on as they have been doing, within a few years they would have controlled the quantity and price of practically every article of food found on the American table. During the last fifteen years, the value of their business grew from $92,000,000 to $479,000,000, and they paid $105,000,000 in cash dividends. Their combined sales in 1919 reached the huge sum of $3,200,000,000.

Turning the Railroad Back

Dec. 24 President Wilson issued a proclamation turning back to private control and operation the railroads and other systems of transportation which have been under Federal control since March 21, 1918—the change to take effect on the first day of March, 1920. The task will not be an easy one, and the margin of two months to do it is not too much, but, under the spur of the President's proclamation, Congress should be able to accomplish it; and it will be a relief to have the adjustment accomplished.

A Huge Christmas Gift

On the day before Christmas, John D. Rockefeller added to his long list of benefactions a huge Christmas gift of one hundred million dollars, half of which is to go to the General Education Board to raise the salaries of college professors; and half to the Rockefeller Foundation to aid in combating diseases through improvement of medical education, public health administration and scientific research. It is estimated that this gift brings the total of the Rockefeller benefactions up to nearly $450,000,000. None of the objects of his charity have been more wisely chosen than the two last; for the salaries of college professors have remained comparatively stationary while the cost of living has been mounting, and, as to the other object, everything that can be done to improve the public health will be a national boon.

Berger Again Elected

Victor L. Berger, the radical Socialist from the 5th Wisconsin district, whom the House of Representatives, by a vote of 311 to 1, denied a seat, was re-elected on the 19th of December by a majority of 4,806 votes. He plans to present himself to be sworn in as a member, upon the resuming of Congress after the recess, but it is not expected that the House will modify its attitude toward him. The only question appears to be whether the House, when he again appears, will refer the case again to the Elections Committee, or will deny him a seat without that formality. If he is unseated, as appears certain, the Governor of Wisconsin has announced that he will not put the state to the cost of another special election, but will allow the seat to remain vacant until the election of 1920.

HOW GERMANY SCHEMED

Interment of the Kronprinzessin Cecile at Bar Harbor Was Part of a Well Laid Plan

Winfield M. Thompson, one of the editors of the Marine Journal of New York, in a new department called, "Observed and Noted" tells in an interesting way how it happens that the former German liner Kronprinzessin Cecile flies the flag of the United States. It carries its back to the early days of the war when in August, 1914, the whole country and especially the state of Maine was startled to have the big steamship suddenly appear at Bar Harbor because her captain was afraid to continue to Germany with the prospect of being captured by an English or French ship of war. His observations are as follows:

A bulky gray ship, towering with many decks, a veritable hotel afloat, has just gone slowly through the view from our office window—a transport in war gray, home from her last voyage, to be conditioned for passenger service. She flies our flag, but I note that she is one of that numerous fleet that we now speak of as "the former German liners."

What stories lie behind this reference? We are as yet too close to the events in which these ships have figured in the war years to get the perspective of them from a historical standpoint, but of stirring yarns they yield a plentiful store. Every one of these ships is tangible evidence of the complete breakdown of German reasoning—a psychology that failed because long and bitter trade rivalry, the stupid English, it was so simple, too, so exceedingly simple, that they could not help laughing over it when they first put it into practice.

The instant war was declared all German ships, in all of the world, would be downed at the same moment, at a wireless signal, and make for the nearest neutral port, there to remain in snug security, while the German U-boats swept the English merchant marine from the seas.

The war would be short, and the instant it was over it would pay off. The Kronprinzessin and the Kronprinz and the rest of the German fleet from those snug neutral ports that had harbored them and forthwith would grab the carrying trade of the world. I had some direct information of how this plan was put into execution on one of the ships, the Kronprinzessin Cecile. This vessel was near mid-Atlantic, east bound, when war was declared by Germany on France. Her captain received a message by wireless, "Johnny has the measles," or something like that. Such a simple message! It was so easy to fool the stupid English.

So the ship made a turn on a perfect summer evening and the passengers wondered how the moon had changed from one side of the ship to the other. But changed it had, and three days later the ship was back in New York harbor, flying the Stars and Stripes.

Her passengers were sent comfortably back to their homes by rail. Some $1,000,000 in gold shipped from New York got back there in the same way. The ship remained at Bar Harbor, safe from the enemy, until winter winds made her anchorage unsafe. Then she was removed cautiously along shore to Boston and berthed at a pier. Her stowaway English, spying war, spreading German propaganda.

Meanwhile the U-boats were biting great holes in the British merchant fleet. Was not the plan working with German precision? Yes, outwardly it was.

When did it fail? When an outraged world rose against a people who had been masquerading as civilized but who proved themselves to be but educated savages. Then the snug neutral harbors ceased to be neutral, and the ships so artfully protected therein became prizes of war. And that is why the big gray liner flies the Stars and Stripes today.

EMPIRE THEATRE

The character of "Cheyenne Harry," created by Harry Carey fits in admirably with today's picture "The Outcasts of Poker Flats." As "Square Shooter" Langston, the pathetic gambler, he commands your instant admiration and sympathy. This midweek bill also offers the second installment of "The Fatal Fortune," the Ford Weekly and a comedy "In Loving Memory."

"The Wilderness Trail" is the name of the weekend feature, and Tom Mix, hero of many a Western photodrama is the star. But this time he is in the colony instead of on the Western plains. Jeanne Fitzpatrick loved Donald MacAvish despite the fact that he was her father's deadliest enemy. Jeanne Fitzpatrick was the factor of the Hudson Bay colony and he was extremely jealous of MacAvish's father who was to succeed him. Therefore he lost no time in accusing the young man of being a free-trader and that he would hang him if he did not square himself. Donald, fearless and determined, set out to round up the outlaws single-handed. In the meantime Jeanne was lured to a deserted cabin by an Indian woman because the latter's son was desirous of marrying her. And being the real leader of the free-traders he knew if the girl was his wife he would escape punishment.

How Donald was captured in his efforts to round up the criminals, how he made his escape in a thrilling scene, how he rescued the girl of his heart and vindicated himself after a terrific battle with his enemies is vividly depicted in one of the most unusual pictures that manager has ever booked. The serial for Friday and Saturday is "Elmo, the Mighty,"—adv.

Modern Circuit Rider Uses Flivver

"THE KING'S BUSINESS REQUIRES HASTE"

CIRCUIT RIDING—OLD AND NEW

The twentieth century circuit rider who has congregations scattered over from ten to fifty square miles of territory does not travel from place to place on horseback. Instead he makes use of two of the latest methods of transportation, immeasurably faster than the slow-paced Dobbin. He either mounts a motorcycle and pluts-pluts his way from one village to another or climbs into a moderate priced automobile and whirs about. Probably the only reason why he does not use an airplane is because his congregations refuse to have him risk his life by becoming a "sky pilot" literally as well as figuratively.

The number of strictly up-to-date circuit riders will be greatly increased as a result of the National-Wide Campaign of the Episcopal Church. In the surveys of the needs of the various parishes and dioceses returned to the general headquarters of the National-Wide Campaign at 124 East 28 Street, New York City many requests have been included asking for aid in buying motorcycles and automobiles that the effectiveness of the rector in the sparsely populated sections of the country may be increased many times.

The Right Rev. Hugh L. Burlinson of Sioux Falls, S. D., Episcopal Bishop of South Dakota, in including the item of automobiles in the survey for that diocese says: "A priest with a machine can do just four times the work out here as a priest without one."

The Right Rev. Clinton L. Quin, Bishop Coadjutor of Texas, with headquarters in Houston, asks for automobiles for the clergymen in his diocese as does Archbishop Garner of Amarillo for the Diocese of North Texas. There the territory in charge of each clergyman is large and the distances he has to cover so great that it is deemed indispensable that he be supplied with motor transport.

The Right Rev. James Wise, Bishop of Kansas, wants motorcycles instead of automobiles for a number of his clergy. With them he is able to supply a preacher for a number of small towns within sixty miles of Topeka every Sunday.

As a result of the National-Wide Campaign, which is to raise both money and workers for the expansion of all Episcopal activities, the dealers in automobiles, motorcycles and gasoline will find a new customer for their wares and one whose trade is entirely likely to keep on expanding as the churches learn how much modern means of transportation add to the amount of work which their rectors can accomplish.

MAKE GOOD PIES QUICKLY WITH THE ALREADY COOKED

MAINE MAID MINCE MEAT

It provides pies like you expect to have them—with the true New England "homey" flavor. Made from old Down-East recipes, "Maine-Maid" mince-meat comes to you in sealed cans pure and wholesome—cooked and processed ready for instant use.

Large can is sufficient for three thick pies.

"Maine-Maid" Mince Meat is more economical to use because it contains sufficient beef for at least three pies if additional ingredients are added at home.

WATER RATES INCREASED

To the Water Takers of the Camden & Rockland Water Company:

The increasing cost of all materials and labor has made necessary an adjustment of the rates of this Company.

The rates now in force are substantially the same as when the Company began supplying this community with water over thirty years ago.

During this time additional water supplies have been obtained, larger transmission and distribution mains laid, a standpipe built in Camden, and many other miscellaneous improvements made.

While present conditions may be but temporary, yet the conditions under which the Company is now operating are daily becoming more severe, totally different from when the present rates were established thirty years ago.

The new rates, effective January 5, 1920, may be summarized as follows:

FLAT RATES

For each Family or Service,	$10.00
For First Water Closet,	5.00
For each additional Water Closet,	3.00
For First Bath Tub,	5.00
For each additional Bath Tub,	2.00
Private Stables and Garages. Each Animal or Automobile,	3.00
Hand Hose,	5.00
Lawn Sprinkler,	10.00

METER RATES

First 2,000 cu. ft. per month 30c per 100 cu. ft.
Next 8,000 cu. ft. per month 20c per 100 cu. ft.
All in excess of the first 10,000 cu. ft. per month 10c per 100 cu. ft.

A complete rate schedule is on file at the office of the Company.
